As the first occupational therapy program in western Massachusetts to offer an entry-level doctorate, we welcome our role as visionaries and embrace our responsibility to establish innovative benchmarks in graduate professional education that others will follow. Rapidly changing health care systems are demanding more of entry-level occupational therapy practitioners. The OTD curriculum is meeting this call by providing academic preparation beyond the generalist level, including advanced graduate knowledge, skills, and fieldwork/experiential opportunities. The 109-credit OTD curriculum is delivered in a 3-year program that is completed over 9 consecutive semesters. Here are the Top 5 Reasons to earn your Doctor of Occupational Therapy at Western New England University:

- Small class sizes mean individualized attention and support.
- Numerous hands-on experiential opportunities that are intentionally integrated.

- Four performance laboratory settings to mirror “real-world” experience.
- Doctoral degree prepares students to be leaders and scholars of the profession.
- Save time and tuition!
